The Chairman of Irongate Funds Management Limited, Richard Longes, said "We would like to thank our many investors for their support and acknowledgement of IAP's strategy, management team and the board."

"The board is committed to the highest standards of governance and remain strongly of the view that independence must be maintained from any sectional interests of one particular securityholder. This is important in an internalised fund such as IAP, especially where a key element for growth is to attract and manage third party capital.

"IAP has performed strongly since its internalisation. It has a high performing management team and has a proven strategy to build on its history of delivering attractive returns for all securityholders.

"With regard to the vote on the adoption of the remuneration report, while we are respectful of the views of our securityholders, we note that if the 360 Capital Group vote is not included in the calculation, the vote of other securityholders would have seen the resolution passed with more than 88% of securityholders in favour"

However, since securityholders representing more than 25% of the voting rights cast at the meeting voted against resolution 3, the board invites dissenting securityholders to provide any questions or concerns to ir@irongategroup.com.au by no later than Thursday, 30 September 2021. Thereafter the board will engage with individual securityholders to seek to address their concerns.

Securityholders should also note under the Corporations Act 2001(Cth), as securityholders representing more than 25% of the voting rights cast at the meeting voted against resolution 3, this constitutes a "first strike". Under this regime, in the event that two strikes are recorded against IAP's remuneration report at two consecutive annual general meetings, a spill resolution will be put to securityholders which, if passed require that the non-executive directors who were in office at the time the relevant remuneration report was approved stand for re-election if they wish to continue in office.
