B-BBEE TRANSACTION UPDATE

In September 2017, Barclays PLC transferred 1.5% of its shareholding in Absa Group, then known as Barclays Africa Group Limited, to an interim structure (the "Absa Empowerment Trust") created to facilitate a new Broad-Based Black Economic Empowerment ("B-BBEE") transaction for Absa. Since then, the Absa Empowerment Trust has utilised dividends received from Absa to purchase additional shares, increasing its stake in Absa to approximately 1.9%.

Work on the development of a new Absa B-BBEE scheme was put on hold in 2020 as market conditions were not conducive during the Covid-19 pandemic and economic downturn. However, with market conditions improving, we have re-engaged advisors and are again considering implementing a new B-BBEE ownership transaction.

Although work is still ongoing, it is currently envisaged that the scheme will be broad-based, will include both third party investors and staff, and that it could constitute up to 8% of Absa's share capital, inclusive of the Absa Empowerment Trust shares.

Full details of the proposed scheme, which will be subject to shareholder and other approvals, are expected to be published in a terms announcement later this year, once the design has been finalised, with implementation expected in 2022.
