ANNUAL INVESTOR REPORT

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT

It is my pleasure to present the annual report of the Manager, the 10X Collective Investment Schemes (previously CoreShares Collective Investment Scheme) and 10X Exchange Traded Fund Scheme (previously CoreShares Index Tracker Collective Investment Scheme) (the “Schemes”) and their respective portfolios for the year ended 31 December 2023.

Market Review

The year began with global inflation moderating after reaching its highest levels in over 40 years, initiating one of the most aggressive interest rate hiking cycles seen in four decades. Such rapid rate hikes typically lead to disruptions, and this time, they resulted in the failure of Silicon Valley Bank (SVB) and other regional banks, culminating in the downfall of Credit Suisse. However, swift intervention from central banks, coupled with an infusion of liquidity, quickly stabilized the markets and prevented broader contagion.

Simultaneously, the excitement surrounding AI advancements, particularly with the public release and adoption of Chat-GPT, propelled US equity markets to new heights. The moderation of commodity prices, which had previously fueled global inflation, had adverse effects on South Africa's fiscal outlook, exerting negative pressure on the Rand and local bonds.

In Q3, global financial conditions tightened as the yield on US government bonds surpassed 5%, weighing down growth assets. However, a dovish central bank meeting prompted the market to anticipate an aggressive interest rate-cutting cycle, boosting global risk assets and concluding the year on a strong note.

Given the Rand's depreciation throughout the year, offshore assets outperformed local assets in 2023. Returns across asset classes were strong, ranging from 6.9% for SA inflation-linked bonds to over 33% for developed market equities. This saw pleasing returns across our unit trust range, despite the negative news flow and on the back of soft market returns in 2022. This underscores the importance of maintaining a long-term investment horizon and staying invested through market cycles to meet investment goals.
